Before an address number can be issued, the applicant must measure along the centerline of the new driveway to the center of the nearest driveway that has an address along the same side of the road. A sketch should be drawn showing the distance between the driveways, any pertinent road names and the address number of the structure used as reference. The measurement can also be from an intersecting road.

Plot Plan (please sketch on back)

The number you will be issued is based on the location at which your driveway meets the main road and has nothing to do with the location of your house. When you are filling out information on your plot plan, an accurate measurement between driveways is needed to insure a uniform numbering system and quick emergency service, as well as the distance from the nearest section, quarter section or 40 line that intersects the road, or the nearest road intersection. Inaccurate/incomplete address information could result in additional fees and address number changes.
